Pro Courses

Divemaster

Your adventure into the professional levels of recreational diving begins with the PADI Divemaster program. Your PADI Instructor will become your mentor and guide through your development to a PADI Divemaster.

Duration - 12 Days - 570 €

Assistant Instructor

This qualification will enable you to teach a range of PADI diving programmes, such as Seal Team, Skin Diver and Peak Performance Buoyancy. You will also be able to teach knowledge development segments from various PADI courses.

Instructor Development Course

The goal of the PADI Instructor Development Course is to prepare instructor candidates to function as PADI Open Water Scuba Instructors, after successful completion of a PADI Instructor Examination. And with a permanent Course Director only teaching for Buddies, you'll get the benefit of his experience and knowledge resulting in the best diving instruction available.

Technical diving is scuba diving's "extreme" sport, taking experienced and qualified divers far deeper than in mainstream recreational diving. Technical diving is marked by significantly more equipment and training requirements to manage the additional hazard this type of diving entails.

*Tec diving isn't for everyone,
but for those who hear its challenge call,
the PADI TecRec courses are the answer.*

Technical scuba diving is defined as diving other than conventional commercial or research diving that takes divers beyond recreational scuba diving limits.

It is further defined as and includes one or more of the following:

- diving beyond 40 metres/130 feet deep
- required stage decompression
- diving in an overhead environment beyond 40 linear metres of the surface
- accelerated decompression and or the use of variable gas mixtures
